“Founders’ Plaza” is a highly appropriate, historically significant name for the site at Main and Bridge streets. The properties of Brighton founders Dewey Strong (north of Bridge Street) and Daniel Carmichael (south of Bridge) converged at that site. Mr. Carmichael’s Opera House, occupied that site (in large part), and the two men have been depicted, in a painting, greeting finishers of the longtime Denver-to-Brighton Sandpaper Track bicycle races near the site.
